Debutantes written by Cora Harrison is one of the best historical fiction books I've read. And trust me, I've read quite a few books from that genre. It's dreamy, romantic, glamorous, mysterious and warm all at the same time! I really loved it! All right, I was attracted by the cover of this book first.

'Debutantes' was a charming read which I really enjoyed. It's light and summery and the perfect book to make you smile when you turn the final page. It is, I believe, the first in a new series by Cora Harrison so I shall look forward to seeing what the characters get up to next.

Debutantes by Cora Harrison is a book which I would recommend to those who want a nice gentle read from yester-year. I loved everything about it from the wonderful writing which reminded me totally of Jane Austen, but what I really enjoyed mostly was the wonderful characters which the author filled the pages with.
